Hello,

My name is Priscila Alegria, I am a resident of Boyle Heights, I live 3 miles away from the Lineage Logistic warehouse. How you respond and take action today will define how our futures unfold as rising temperatures afflict our communities. I demand that you seize this opportunity to enact climate racial justice at the local level. We're residents and stewards of the Land that has been entrusted upon us, Tovangaar. The value of reciprocity is at the core of indigenous knowledge. As someone mentioned in the meeting, air does not have a zip code. I ask that you do not allow further harm onto the Land where we live, it harms us and will harm you. What you allow today here in Boyle Heights will also affect you sooner than you think. I demand justice for the Land and the people, animals, plants affected by the fire, the smoke, the chemicals, and the immediate and long-lasting mental and physical effects this disaster is having on the community of Boyle Heights, East Los Angeles, and surrounding neighborhoods. We cannot afford to continue seeing the Land mismanaged, polluted, and murdered. I first saw the plume of smoke at 3pm on Wednesday, June 17th from Mariachi Plaza. While elected politicians said the smoke was not dangerous, at night time the next day, I saw a glowing outline all around the plume of smoke. Since then I've had migraines, my eyes itched, my throat hurt, my skin has been irritated. The rotting smell has been so strong I've been close to vomiting many times. I have had to leave my home on multiple occasions for days at the time. I am scared of eating the fruits and vegetables I have been growing in my garden. Boyle Heights needs more greens spaces for children to play, for all to breathe cleaner air. Let us reimagine the future by remembering how the land was before urban sprawl. Our health is worth it. This is your chance to set a precedence of kind, just leadership in the face of climate crisis.

Very best,
Priscila
